PROCLAMATION
of H. M. de Kock to the inhabitants of the district of

from H. M. de Kock etc ...

At some time the Biogga Princes OP and MB, both guardians of the young Sultan H.B. V, have left the capital and have resisted the Dutch government, and have ~~unplanned~~ new excited population by inflammatory writings (letters) and have perpetrated robbery and murder, and have worked for general resistance.

In view of the fact that the Dutch government wants nothing else than the peace and welfare of the Javanese princes as well as their subjects, has therefore sent hitherto with full authority and power. After having come to an agreement with the court of Solo, who have once more showed quite clearly their industrious faith in the Dutch government, the following resolutions have hereby been determined =

1. That supreme authority rested in de Kock during period of rebellion
2. All officials of both courts to follow orders given by de Kock via Patih.
3. All officials who have attached themselves to the court of OP and MB can no longer claim any immunity from their princes if they give themselves up 4. All those who persist in rebellion will be most heavily punished.
5. In order that no one may plead ignorance this order will be sent to all officials at the courts and councils.

Yocyn Letters
de Rock No. 181

en de waardering die hij bij hen had gevonden, kon gaan beschrijven, en dit vleidend zelfportret bovendien nog als spiegel kon voorhouden aan de Maleise maatschappij zijner dagen, wier inertie, bijgelovigheid, corruptie en domheid hij niet moede wordt te hekelen, een maatschappij zelfs te dom om haar eigen taal op waarde te schatten. In de strijd tussen verandering en behoud staat Abdullah onvoorwaardelijk aan de kant van de Europese bringers van de verlichting; hij bewondert de Engelsen, en mag er al iets van de time-server in hem zijn, hij had zijn hoogachting en zijn ontzag slechter kunnen plaatsen, en waarom zouden wij eraan twifelen dat Raffles inderdaad door zijn optreden Abdullahs hart had gewonnen (pandai sungguh mengambil hati serta dengan budi bahasanja), gelijk Abdullah in zijn afscheidspantun de vertrekkende landvoogd nageeft. Daardoor is Abdullahs Hikajat geworden tot wat zij is, een boeiende beschrijving van een zeer belangwekkende periode in de geschiedenis van het Maleise schiereiland in de vorm van persoonlijke herinneringen aan grote mannen en belangrijke feiten. Herinneringen en indrukken, niet echter van een Maleier, maar van iemand die tot op zekere hoogte buiten de inheemse samenleving stond. De maatschappelijke groep immers waartoe Abdullah behoorde, heeft zich over het algemeen nooit met de zonen des lands vereenzelvigd. De oprichting van verenigingen van Indo-Arabieren die Indonesië als hun vaderland wensten te beschouwen, dateert pas van de periode tussen de beide wereldoorlogen. Zij representeert slechts de politieke belangstelling van een enkele schakering onder deze groep van vreemde Oosterlingen, die voor 't overige zeer gering was, en, waar zij bestond, van oudsher overwegend tot partij kiezen voor het Europese bewind geneigd. Dat is ook bij Abdullah duidelijk merkbaar, en het lag bij hem reeds in de lijn van de traditie. Zijn vader immers was weliswaar een koopman, die zeer winstgevende zaken op Siak dreef, maar hij stond tevens in dienst van de Nederlandse resident van Malakka en liet zich door Batavia op diplomatieke missies naar de Maleise vorsten zenden — zoals het Nederlands-Indische Bestuur in de 19de eeuw nog vele malen van de diensten van vooraanstaande Arabische ingezetenen voor zulke doeleinden gebruik zou maken. Tengevolge van de politieke gebeurtenissen op het Maleise schiereiland raakt de zoon echter op de Engelsen en het Engels georiënteerd en hij blijft dat ook bij de kortstondige terugkeer van het Nederlands gezag in de stad Malakka. Dit heeft zijn gehele carrière bepaald.

Op die carrière ziet Abdullah niet zonder zelfvoldaanheid terug, en laat hij niet na op de daartoe geëigende punten beschouwingen en raadgevingen in te lassen. De moderne lezer is geneigd zich aan deze herhaalde onderbreking van het verhaal te ergeren; de Maleise lezer, gewend als hij was om door een auteur tot het „mengambil ibarat” te worden aangespoord, zal daarvan minder last hebben gehad. Doch zonder deze uitweidingen zou de wereldwijze persoon van Abdullah ons minder duidelijk voor ogen staan, en zijn uitvoerigheid te dezen zij hem des te eer vergeven omdat zij overigens hem tal van belangwekkende bijzonderheden heeft doen memoreren — bijzonderheden waaraan uiteraard zelfs een uitvoerig excerpt als dat van Hooykaas in zijn boek „Over Maleise litteratuur” niet volledig recht kan laten wedervaren. Het is onmiskenbaar, dat naarmate het boek vordert, Abdullah zelf en zijn eigen milieu op het tweede plan komen. Heeft hij eenmaal, op gevaar van lijfelijke afstraffing, en dank zij de bijstand van zijn werkgevers en leermeesters de zege bevochten op de verdachtmaking als zoude „dominé” Abdullah hard op weg zijn het geloof zijner vaderen te verzaken, en is hij eenmaal, dank zij alweer de bijstand van zijn Europese werkgevers, getrouwd, dan heeft zich blijkbaar een emancipatie voltrokken en begint een rustiger periode in de groei van zijn persoonlijkheid. Het is bekend dat de schrijvers van autobiografieën en dagboeken over zulke perioden in hun leven plegen heen te glijden; probleemloze perioden zijn autobiografisch niet relevant. Wel vernemen wij dan van de vele lessen die hij geeft en van ziekte en dood in zijn gezin, maar het accent valt op de bedrijvigheid der Engelsen. Lezenswaard blijft echter ook dit gedeelte in hoge mate, en ieder die geïnteresseerd is in de geschiedenis van de aanrakingen tussen Oost en West zal dit boek slechts tot zijn schade ongelezen laten.

In psychologisch en historisch opzicht veel belangrijker dan de gedenkschriften van Abdullah is een ten onzent veel minder bekend geschrift, dat eveneens uit de eerste helft van de vorige eeuw dateert: het levensverhaal van Pangeran Dipanagara, de Javaanse vrijheidsheld, door hemzelf in ballingschap opgesteld, of misschien naar zijn aanwijzingen opgeschreven. Dit verhaal is een van de belangrijkste bronnen tot de kennis van het ontstaan van de Java-oorlog (1825—1830) en het is door de geschiedschrijver van die oorlog, Louw, dan ook met veel vrucht gebruikt. Louw beschikte over een vertaling, die voor het grootste deel door Palmer van den Broek was vervaardigd en door de Javanicus Cohen Stuart gecontroleerd. Deze vertaling, met grote moeite na vele jaren eindelijk tot stand gebracht, heeft het nooit tot een afzonderlijke uitgave kunnen brengen. De uitvoerige 1/3 van het totaal beslaande inleiding, die Dipanagara's afstamming van de laatste vorst van Madjapait moet aantonen en zodoende het legitiem karakter van zijn aanspraken, is door Louw terzijde gelegd als voor zijn onderwerp van zeer weinig belang. En verder is datgene wat de hoofdstukken VI en VII van deel I van Louws grote werk bieden, toch slechts een excerpt van Dipanagara's geschrift. Wie daarvan meer wil weten, is op de Javaanse tekst aangewezen, doch deze is niet gemakkelijk te raadplegen, daar hij in handschrift slechts bij het Kon. Bataviaasch Genootschap te vinden is, terwijl de — eveneens onvolledige — gedrukte uitgaaf volkomen van de boekenmarkt is verdwenen. Zeker, de 19de eeuw is berucht als de meest verwaarloosde periode van de Indische geschiedschrijving, zodat men voor een conscientieus werk als dat van Louw zeer dankbaar moet zijn. Maar desalniettemin is deze toestand uiterst onbevredigend, omdat zelfstandig teruggaan tot de bronnen daardoor onmogelijk is, en het doet dan ook aan onze waardering voor Louws voortreffelijke arbeid niets af, wanneer al evenzeer t.a.v. deze periode der Javaanse geschiedenis publicatie van de betrokken babads moet worden verlangd. Waarbij wij geenszins uit het oog verliezen wat Meinsma in 1877 te dien aanzien al heeft opgemerkt, nl. dat de vraag of het verhaal van enige gebeurtenis geschiedkundige waarde heeft, niet alleen beantwoord moet worden naar de meer of mindere juistheid, waarmee de feiten geboekstaafd zijn, maar dat de historische waarde van enig geschrift ligt in de voorstelling, die van een gebeurtenis in een zekere omgeving door deze of gene personen gegeven wordt.

Doch deze eis van wetenschappelijke methode is niet de enige overweging die ons doet pleiten voor uitgaaf der Javaanse bronnen. Louw schreef als militair geschiedkundige de geschiedenis van een koloniale oorlog, die hij echter, conform het verlangen van het Bataviaasch Genootschap, dat het voorstel ertoe had gedaan, plaatste in het verband van de feiten die zich in de eerste 15 jaar na de teruggave der koloniën hadden voorgedaan. Sinds in onze eeuw echter het Indonesische nationalisme de belangstelling voor verzetsbewegingen in vroeger tijd heeft gewekt, is de figuur van Dipanagara aan Indonesische zijde zeer naar voren geschoven. Hij is geworden tot de nationale held bij uitnemendheid, tot symbool van het Indonesische vrijheidsverlangen in het koloniale tijdperk. Geen geschiedschrijver die de 19de eeuw gaat aanvatten, zal dit feit kunnen negeren, en zo hij al voor een relaas der feiten uit de voorgeschiedenis van de oorlog en de strijd zelf zich zal kunnen referen aan zijn voorganger, het lijkt aan gerechte twijfel onderhevig of hij dat ook zal kunnen doen voor een karakterschets van de hoofdfiguur uit deze gebeurtenissen. Want reeds Van der Kemps uitvoerige studie over Dipanagara als Hamlet-figuur bewijst dat Louw in dezen het laatste woord niet heeft gesproken, en dat een hernieuwd beroep op de documenten noodzakelijk zal zijn. Pas integrale uitgave van Dipanagara's eigen geschrift en van de geschiedverhalen over hem van zijn beide Javaanse tijdgenoten kan zulk een beroep mogelijk maken; vrucht afwerpen zal het pas wanneer de gegevens die deze documenten bieden, kunnen worden geïnterpreteerd en zo nodig aangevuld uit grondige kennis van de Javaanse cultuur, met inbegrip van het Javaanse godsdienstige leven, en grondig begrip van de werking die de binnen die cultuur geldende idealen op de betrokkenen kunnen uitoefenen.

Het is bekend dat dit inzicht in bijzondere mate heeft ontbroken aan de man die, toen de oorlog uitbrak, de hoogste Europese bestuurder te Jogjakarta was, resident Smissaert. Nog de dag vóór het uitbreken der vijandelijkheden schreef hij aan de Gouverneur-Generaal, dat Dipanagara algemeen bekend was als „iemand, die van tijd tot tijd gekweld is door zinneloosheid, in welke ogenblikken hij zich bevorens wel eens heeft overgegeven aan dwaze stappen en aan vergedreven godsdienst-oefeningen”. Deze combinatie is kostelijk; zij lijkt mij een hendiadys, waarmee Smissaert in ambtelijke omslachtigheid wil zeggen dat Dipanagara zich gedraagt als een verdwaasde fanaticus. Zijn optreden plaatste de resident dus voor een raadsel, dat hij alleen maar kon „verklaren” door aan krankzinnigheid te denken, voor een man met 24 jaar dienst op Java wel een zeer sprekend testimonium paupertatis, zelfs wanneer men in aanmerking neemt dat de zo verlichte 19de eeuw, vooral in Indië, een godsdienstig mens al gauw een bekrompen dweper noemde, en een godsdienstig moslim een fanaticus. Niet voor niets is „panatik” in het Bantamse de aanduiding geworden van iemand die zijn godsdienstplichten trouw waarneemt, „practizerend” is, zoals onze Roomse landgenoten zeggen.

Daarom steekt er ook niets bevreemdends in dat zelfs Multatuli Dipanagara een „arme dweeper” vindt, en een beetje onnozel ook, omdat hij zich houdt aan Sultan Agungs verbodsbepaling t.a.v. het oversteken van de Bagawanta, de rivier met de onfatsoenlijke naam. Dit bewijst, zoals Van Praag in de jongste studie over Dipanagara zegt, „dat Multatuli toch nog altijd op een zeer eerbiedige afstand stond van hen, wier zaak hij tot de zijne had gemaakt”. Meer begrip toont zeker de Commissaris-Generaal Du Bus, wanneer hij aan de Minister van Koloniën in het moederland schrijft, na alle grieven van Dipanagara te hebben opgesomd, dat het niemand meer mag en moet verwonderen „dat een Java'sche Prins, die reeds zoovele redenen tot ontevredenheid gevonden had, eindelijk een besluit genomen heeft, waarvan de uitvoering zeker twijfelachtig zijn konde, maar hetwelk in zichzelf het rechtmatig kenmerk droeg van geleden hoon, ondergane vernederingen en gekwetst eergevoel". Hiermee is wel veel, maar niet alles gezegd, want niet ieder die uit ontevredenheid en rechtmatige gegriefdheid tot opstand kwam, stelde de pretentie, als hoofd van de godsdienst op geheel Java te worden erkend, of nam, als Dipanagara, de naam van de Javaanse Messias Erutjakra aan, m.a.w.: de godsdienstige, wel te verstaan, de Javaans-Moslimse, en eschatologische aspecten van de zaak komen hier niet tot haar recht. Dat doen zij, trots alle moeite die Louw zich gegeven heeft om objectief te zijn, ook niet in het standaardwerk over de Java-oorlog. Dweepzucht, hardnekkigheid en bijgeloof, de drie hoofdeigenschappen, die Louw in Dipanagara ziet, heten, van de binnenkant bekeken, dikwijls: gegrepenheid door een ideaal, standvastigheid en geloof. En de vraag stellende naar de inhoud van dat ideaal en de inhoud van dat geloof, komt men onvermijdelijk uit bij het complex van politiek-religieuze concepties — vlottend in haar uitwerking maar vast in haar kern — dat geboden wordt door het ratu-adil-geloof en de toekomstvoorzeggingen waaraan tot op de huidige dag de naam van Djajabaja verbonden is.

De verwaarlozing van deze Javaanse heilsverwachtingen is m.i. ook de zwakke plek van de zeer uitvoerige karakterstudie van Van der Kemp, die ik zoeven reeds heb genoemd. Al mag deze studie niet in alle opzichten overtuigend zijn, leerzaam blijft zij in hoge mate; het is het beste stuk dat tot dusverre aan Dipanagara's „werkelijk schoone babad" zijn ontstaan dankt. Van der Kemp, zich inspirerend op een Duitse studie over Hamlet (Richard Loening, Die Hamlet-Tragödie Shakespeares), vergelijkt Dipanagara's positie aan het Jogjase hof met die van Hamlet te Elseneur, en trekt naar aanleiding van beider zwaarmoedigheid, traagheid, lijdelijkheid, maar evenzeer op grond van beider hartstochtelijke uitvallen, hun sarcasme, hun trots, en hun vermeende krankzinnigheid, de parallel volledig door, tot in hun beider tragische ondergang. Het is de verdienste van Van Praag, de schrijver van het in 1947 verschenen boek Onrust op Java, De jeugd van Dipanegara, dat hij — alhoewel geen Javanicus — de zwakke plek in dit betoog van Van der Kemp heeft onderkend, blijkbaar onafhankelijk van de opmerkingen die ik over de betekenis van de eschatologische voorstellingen voor het juiste begrip van Dipanagara's optreden in Djawa 1939 blz. 217-218 reeds had gemaakt. Doch dat Van Praag geen Javanicus is, wreekt zich al dadelijk hierin dat hij „Dipanagara's gedachten en daden tegen de achtergrond van de Islâm-traditie" projecterende (o.c. blz. 237 nt. 2), bij de Mahdi en niet bij de Ratu Adil uitkomt, alhoewel hij er toch voor terugschrikt de Java-oorlog met een Mahdi-beweging te vereenzelvigen. Het is jammer dat Van Praag de bouwstoffen voor zijn boek niet altijd op de juiste plaatsen heeft gezocht; het is hem ontgaan dat Islam en Islam op Java niet hetzelfde is, anders had hij veeleer in het Javanisme naar de verklaring van Dipanagara's voorstellingen en handelingen omgezien. Zijn boek bevat thans vele overbodige uitweidingen, en mist de solide fundering in het Javaanse gedachtenleven, die voor de juiste interpretatie van de figuur van Dipanagara onontkoombare voorwaarde is.

Met de terugblikken op zo volkomen uiteenlopende levens als het verhaal van Nachoda Muda, de Maleise mémoires van Abdullah en de Javaanse babad van Dipanagara ons bieden, is al wat het verleden aan autobiografie heeft opgeleverd, opgesomd. Het duurt nog tot de dertiger jaren van onze eeuw voor opnieuw een Indonesiër zich zet tot een zo uitvoerige optekening van de memorabilia zijns levens, al moet gezegd, dat ook in de nieuw ontlokten Indonesische romanlitteratuur van de laatste decennien hier en daar ongetwijfeld autobiografische trekken te vinden zijn. Onze bekendheid met de omstandigheden waaronder de schrijvers van die romans leefden en werkten is echter niet zo groot dat men die trekken daaruit duidelijk afleest. Doch men kan redelijkerwijs b.v. wel vermoeden dat aan de veelgelezen roman van Abdoel Moeis, Salah asuhan, waarin het probleem van het gemengde huwelijk aan de orde is, eigen levenservaringen ten grondslag liggen, gelijk ook aan het minder bekende boek Nasib van Habib St. Maharadja, waarin hetzelfde probleem wordt aangeroerd. En zo moet ook de Indonesische schrijfster van het sobere en waarachtige verhaal, dat onder de titel Buiten het gareel in het Nederlands is verschenen toen het in het Soendaas geen uitgever kon vinden, haar heldin wel zeer na hebben gestaan, anders had zij zeker nooit op zo nuchtere en toch aangrijpende wijze het enthousiasme en de ontmoedigingen van het leven buiten het gouvernementele gareel in de haast hopeloze strijd voor de „wilde" school kunnen uitbeelden. Dit boek zal eens vooral gelden als getuigenis uit een bepaalde periode, zegt Du Perron in zijn inleiding ertoe. Zijn waarde als zodanig zal mede hierdoor worden bepaald, dat het als literaire neerslag van de politieke strijd in de vooroorlogse jaren volstrekt alleen staat, slechts met Sjahri's Indonesische Overpeinzingen, de administratie van den Resident NAHUYs te Djocjokarta, nimmer eenige reden tot misnoegen of tot kwade vermoedens gegeven.

Zoo wel tijdens de Engelsche Residenten, als gedurende de Nederlandsche, (NAHUYs en de Baron DE SALIS,) was het gedrag van DIPO NEGORO vrij van allen blaam; waarom dan ook, na het overlijden van Sultan HAMANGKOBOANO den 4^{den}, door den Heer Resident DE SALIS, deze Javaansche Prins tot Voogd, of liever tot Medevoogd van den minderjarigen Vorst aan de Hooge Indische Regering, is voorgesteld geworden.

De haat, welken DIPO NEGORO reeds lang tegen het Gouvernement en de Europeanen zoude hebben gekoesterd, en waarvan, volgens den Auteur, de volledige bewijzen daarna bekomen zijn, rust, geloof ik, voornamelijk op eene verklaring, welke in het begin der onlusten, in het jaar 1825, door zekeren Radeen Maas ALEP, zoon van DIPO NEGORO, aan Zijne Excellentie den Luitenant Generaal DE KOCK is gegeven geworden, en waarvan de vertaalde inhoud luidt als volgt:

» Op heden, den 3^{den} Augustus 1825, ver» klaar ik, Radeen Maas ALEP, zoon van den » Prins DIPO NEGORO, dat mijn vader, de zoo » evengenoemde Prins, sedert lang den Hollan» ders een kwaad hart toedroeg, dat hij dikwijls » naar den laatst overledenen Sultan ging, en » denzelven meermalen tegen de Europeanen

» heeft aangehitst, met te zeggen: kom, laten » wij zien, of wij niet ons eigen land kunnen » regeren, en laat ons alle onze landen, zoo als » de Kadoe en andere, welke thans in handen » der Europeanen zijn, van hen weder afnemen; » waarop de genoemde Sultan hem antwoordde: » neen! oudere broeder, zulks wil ik niet doen; » ik leef thans zeer aangenaam en tevreden, en » heb genoegzame middelen van het Gouverne» ment, om mijne familie en onderdanen te kun» nen onderhouden. Wat wil ik meer verlan» gen? een ieder is wel met mij, vooral NA-» HUYs, die mij als een opregt vriend behan» delt. Toen zeide mijn vader, de Prins DIPO » NEGORO: schaamt gij u niet, jonger broeder, » om van de Europeanen afhankelijk te zijn?
» hoe is het mogelijk, dat gij met die natie zoo » leven kunt? Daarop antwoordde de Sultan: » Foei! foei! ouder broeder! houd u stil en » spreek er mij niet over; ik verlang niets » meer van dien aard van u te hooren. Waar» na dan ook mijn vader stilzweeg, en een » oogenblik daarna naar huis keerde, en nim» mer weder in den Kraton bij den Sultan kwam, » al werd hij door denzelven geroepen, ten zij » wanneer de Resident zich naar den Kraton be» gaf, want dan ging hij mede, uit vrees om » den Resident te weigeren.

» Sedert deze laatste ontmoeting van mijn » vader met den Sultan, koesterde hij eenen » grooten haat tegen denzelven, zoodat, toen hij

» de tijding kreeg, dat de Sultan overleden was, » hij zich toen uitliet: God dank! Hoe zoude hij » anders moeten sterven, dan op zulk eene wijze, » want oorlogen, om zijn Rijk te kunnen terug » winnen, of hetzelfde te kunnen regeren, durf» de hij toch niet, en daarom is het maar goed, » dat hij uit deze wereld is, en nu zal ook alles » beter gaan.

» Mijn vader had de meeste Prinsen zoeken » over te halen, om zich met hem te vereeni» gen in het smeden van het tegenwoordig be-» staande oproer. Prins ADIE SOERIO is sedert » lang de eerste geweest, die zich met hem in » dat voornemen heeft vereenigd; maar van de » andere Prinsen verklaar ik, niet veel te kun» nen zeggen, omdat ik nooit bij hen aan huis » ben geweest, behalve bij schoonvader, den » Prins SOERIO BRONTO, die geantwoord heeft, » nimmer van zijnen Vorst te willen schei-» den, en dat, zoo lang zijn Vorst het Gou-» vernement nog diende, hij hetzelfde ook wilde » doen.

» Mijn vader heeft zich ook meermalen uitge-» laten, dat de Heeren CHEVALIER, VAN DEN » BERG en BOUWENS, de eersten zouden zijn van » de Europeanen, die hem zouden zoeken onge-» lukkig te maken of op te ligten, en dat dus » zijne onderdanen een wakend oog op de ge-» noemde Heeren zouden houden, en wanneer hij » zijn voornemen had bereikt, om alles in op-» stand te brengen, dan zouden zij die Heeren

» het eerst van kant helpen, want dat hij de » overigen dan niet veel meer telde.

» De Javaan BOERO RESSO, Demang van het » district Padjang, wonende in de Dessa Poong- » hoongan, is degeen, die meest en altijd bij » mijn' vader kwam, om hem aan te moedigen, » zijne voornemens ten uitvoer te brengen.

» Mijn vader had ook eenen Arabier, ge» naamd Sheik ACHMAT met zijn' schoonzoon, » ook ACHMAT genaamd, tot zijne grootste » Raadslieden genomen, en de Javanen MOEDO » WIRIO DIKROMO en DJOMOHAMAD waren de » vertrouwelingen van mijn' vader, die met hun » drie dag en nacht bij hem moesten blijven en » voor hem zitten, om over het een en ander » te raadplegen.

» De Javaan MOEDO was degeen, die mijnen » vader had gewaarschouwd, dat de Europeanen » hem wilden opligten.

» Dat de Demang van Padjang, BOERO RESSO » degeen is, die hem het meeste volk of troe-» pen zoude leveren.

» Dat ik, declarant, om reden ik andere voor» nemens had, dan die van mijn' vader, door » hem, reeds twee maanden geleden, van zijn » huis ben verwijderd geworden, en mij gedu» rende dien tijd bij mijne grootmoeder de Ratoe » Agang heb opgehouden, verklarende ik ver-» der, dat, toen twee dagen, voordat de Heer » Assistent-resident zich met troepen naar mijns » vaders huis heeft begeven, ik door mijne

» grootmoeder ben gezonden geworden, om een' » brief te brengen aan mijn' vader, waarin » stond, dat zij hem afraadde, om zijn voorne» men ten uitvoer te brengen, en dat hij beter » van de Europeanen moest denken; dat de Eu-» ropeanen geenen Javaan zullen trachten te be» driegeu noch kwaad doen, wanneer de Java-» nen geene oorzaak geven, welken brief ik » hem heb overhandigd. En nadat hij denzelyen » gelezen had, verscheurde hij denzelven met » drift, zeggende: verlangt uwe grootmoeder, » dat ik mij gewillig zal laten vangen? Neen!
 » een kip laat zich zoo gemakkelijk niet vatten.
 » Wil uwe grootmoeder mij mogelijk aan de Eu-» ropeanen uitleveren? Maak dat gij spoedig » uit mijne oogen komt, en ga naar huis, en » zeg uwe grootmoeder, dat zij zich maar met » hare eigene zaken bemoeit, en mij laat loopen."

Deze Radeen Maas ALER, welke wel bekend was, zeer zwak van hoofd te zijn geweest, heeft eenigen tijd daarna de partij van het Gou-vernement verlaten, en is tot zijnen vader, den Hoofd-muiteling, overgelopen.

Zeer veel onwaarschijnelijks is voor mij in deze verklaring gelegen.

De overledene, het Nederlandsch Gouvernement zoo trouwelijk toegedane Sultan HAMANG-KOBANO de 4^{de}, die mij in der tijd niet onkundig had gelaten van de kleine verwijdering, welke tusschen hem en zijne beide oud-ooms, den Prins PANOELAR en den Prins BLITAR be-stond, en door mijne bemoeijenis dit misverstand gelukkig had zien uit den weg geruimd, zoude die Vorst mij ook niet op gelijke wijze hebben kennis gegeven van de ongehoorzaamheid van zijnen onechten broeder, DIPO NEGORO, welke weigerde, om op zijne bevelen in den Kraton te verschijnen, en hem daardoor eene grove belediging voor het oog zijner ondergeschikten had aangedaan?

En zoude, indien er waarlijk zoodanig groot misverstand tusschen den Sultan en DIPO NEGORO bestaan had, dezès eerstgenoemens moeder en nabestaande, bij zijn overlijden, aan het Gouvernement den wensch hebben te kennen gegeven, dat deze DIPO NEGORO tot mede-voogd van den jongen Vorst benoemd wierd?

Zonder in een breedvoerig onderzoek te treden, in hoe verre het gevoelen van den Heer Auteur gegrond zij, dat de Prins DIPO NEGORO reeds sedert lang eenen bijzonderen haat tegen het Europeesch gezag zoude hebben gekoesterd, moet ik mij hier eene algemeene aanmerking veroorloven, waarvan ik vertrouwde, dat de toepassing op het gedrag van dien Prins met zeer veel juistheid kan worden gemaakt, namelijk: dat de haat of liefde jegens de Europeanen, bij de Javanen veelal het uitvloeisel is van hun eigenbelang.

Prins MANGKO BOEMIE, daarna Sultan HAMANGKOBANO de 1^{ste} geheeten, zoo wel als Maas SAID, daarna Pangerang Adipatti MANG-

Het Legioen van MN
H.F. Aukes. Bandung 1935

Notes on events during first month of the Java War.

p.61 plans of Danuredja to lay out a road Jogja-Magelang which would go through DP's property. Straight through DP's house even No previous notice given to DP and incites immediate wrath. Large numbers of villagers gathered from Sleman Bantul area to lay out road therefore easily converted into DP supporters. When markers again placed DP orders vassals to come to him armed at Tegalredja.

Messages P.62 sent out to North coast Regencies and Mantjanagara: Madiun, Kediri, Rembang, Bagelen, Sukawati. 'When the cannons sound, at all times, by day and night you must stand prepared.'

Resident Smissaert knows nothing about events: receives first news from Res MacGillavray of Solo, tells Smissaert (letter 19th July) that DP remits four 'Puasas' of taxes to 2 chiefs in Solo Chiefs worried about gathering of 'evil people' and the enterprising spirit which they showed'. Plans of DP with this 'Kraman party' MacGillavray cannot say: gives S news so that 'with circumspection he could keep an eye on DP; later he would send further news.'

Smissaert only half worries about dangers and feels everything will turn out well. Unnecessary to take official actions because DP would soon see mistakes.

19th July MacGillavray to Asst-Res Chevallier (1st Lieut cavalry

II Aug M.W.O. 4th Class
after Battle of Waterloo dies Jogja II Nov 1825)

'Friend. The Demang of the Desa Grojogan is on the march to Jogja with 100 ^{of his followers} ~~about~~ men. Some of my spies are back. They bring the news that the plans are first to fall on Patjitan and then to overcome Jogja with the help of the villagers. Take care that if he mentions anything about DP that we are keeping an eye on him. A secondary wife of the Demang has stated that he had left for Jogja to receive further orders, he also informs me by 'extra-post' whenever he goes far from Jogjak and seems to be a good fellow, but ~~mix~~ in the event that he takes another course of action keep an eye on him. In the Pasars here the news is circulating that it will come to ~~xxx~~ 'prang' in Jogja and that the small people have ^{And then} pledged all their goods (geborgen); and that the Patih of Jogja has climbed Merapi to make a pledge for this war, these merae nugae (sheer gossip) are for your information only. Farewell'.

H. MacGillavry.

p.63

Thus people and officials outside Jogja had news of possible uprising before people in Jogja itself.

19th July from Patih Danuredja S gets firm news that DP has large armed following in Tegalredja.

p.63. Res S and DR immediately send Mangkubumi to Tegalredja to ask DP to account for his conduct and disturbing the peace and why so many armed people in Dalem.

MB comes back to say that DP fears imprisonment and would not visit the Resident. S extremely annoyed sends MB back to summon DP to him immediately, if he did not come, MB himself would suffer the consequences himself. Therefore on DP's second refusal MB stays at TR for fear of Resident's threats.

When on 20th July neither DP nor MB appear S decides to send army to TR to take DP prisoner. Paku Alam, Sultan other Jogja princes send troops. Total force sets out from Jogja at three o'clock under command of 1st Lieut Thierry (dies 27 July 1825 Jogja) strength 25 flanker, 25 ~~infantry~~ hussars and 2 fieldguns under command of Thierry of 7th Hussar Regiment. Asst-Res Chevallier also present. A cannons shot p.64. distance from Tegalredja large numbers of armed men milling round: Chevallier asks them to lay down their arms peacefully, but people refuse to comply sling stones, fire rifles and behave in a hostile way. Chevallier returns resolves to use force: cannon shots and cavalry charge, 1500 men at TR disperse after 25 killed. One sergeant-major killed two hussars badly wounded: DP and MB escape: TR burnt. Start of war which cost 27 MN guilders, 8000 European lives, 7000 Jav allies lives, untold casualties on DP's side.

Report of R. M. Suwangsa
cavalry commander of MN Legion to de Kock about capture on 28th July 1825

Het Legioen van Mangkunegaran
H.F. Aukes Bandung 1935.
pp 79-81 see also de Kock papers ARA The Hague.

On the 28th July 1825 the cavalry captain Raden Mas Suwangsa together with a cavalry detachment of the MN legion consisting of 25 infantry and 12 dragoons tried to break through the rebel lines encircling Jogja, in order to relieve the city. Outside the city the detachment was surrounded and heavily attacked. Fighting bravely R.M. Suwangsa reached Klatten with two remaining dragoons, the others had been killed, but he was knocked unconscious by a sling-stone which struck him at the back of the head and he was taken prisoner. The following day he was brought before Dipanagara at Selarong and although he steadfastly refused to join the rebels, Dipanagara set him and his two companions free,

The Following is his report:

'I was well treated by the rebel princes. They tried to win me over and place me under their orders and promised me a 'white' pajung. For two days I steadfastly refused to agree to this and explained that I would rather die than betray my father-in-law (MN II); therefore they allowed me, after a stay of two nights at Selarong, to leave on horseback escorted by some armed villagers from the surrounding desas, who were replaced from time to time, and who eventually left me at Delanggu.

At Selarong I saw the following Jogja princes:

Pangeran Aria Dipanagara, dressed in white priest's clothes Pangeran Mangkubumi

Pangeran Adinegara, who commanded the army there.

Pangerans Adiwinata, Suriadipura and Blitar.

The Pangeran Adisurja was apparently in Kedu and Dipakusuma, a son of Dipanagara, at the Pager Mt; furthermore there were various Tumenggungs whose names I have forgotten.

The Pangerans and Bupatis were lodged in the house of the Demang without an escort of more than 150-200 armed men. In Selarong itself no patrols were kept and no look-outs posted. Every day bands of armed men arrived, who left immediately after they had received fighting orders at some distance from Selarong they cruised through the Desas, and on my way back I saw numerous such patrols.

The Princes usually sleep till 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning. Some of them are in the habit of taking opium. Their lodgings are not fortified and there would be no obstacles for an attack, such as batteries, entrenchments, trenches etc. Only on the main road from Jogja to Selarong holes have been dug and sharpened bamboos placed in them. The number of rifles were about 30. They have many pikes but no heavy guns.

From the conversations which I had with them and amongst themselves the reason which forced them to leave Jogja was the contempt which they had to endure from the Patih (Danuredja), who treated them constantly as subjects and not as Princes of the blood and also because the Assistant-Resident Chevallier did not show them the respect which they expected to receive; that having taken this step they were determined to hold out, feeling that going back would not have favourable consequences for them; that in particular they had in view the destruction of all the Europeans and that they, following the words of Dipanagara, should not as yet attempt anything, but in the coming month of Sura they should begin their campaign with an attack on Jogja.....'
